First Division, showing the Great Grandchildren of Capt. Noah and Mercy Steele Webster by their daughter Mercy who married John Kellogg Belden of West Hartford, Ct.

SECTION 1.—Children of Ebenezer Belden (Mercy Webster, Capt. Noah, Daniel, John, Robert, Gov. John) and his wife, Jane Haynes Whitall of Buffalo and Batavia, N. Y.

1. Anne Whitall Belden, no date of birth, d. in Niagara Falls, N. Y., in June, 1846, unmarried.

2. John Whitall Belden, no birth date, was a miner and died in California. No children.

3. Rev. William Webster Belden, b. June 25, 1820, at Moscow, Livingston Co., N. Y., a Congregational minister, entered as a private in the 47th Mass. Vols., and was promoted Oct. 4, 1864, to Hospital Chaplain, at Atlanta, Ga., by President Lincoln, and resigned the following Winter on account of ill health. He mar. (1) Aug. 23, 1849, Sarah Treat; and (2) Aug. 31, 1852, Mrs. Elizabeth Passmore Tabor, and (3) Dec. 6, 1898, at Thomaston, Ct., Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas Gilbert, youngest dau. of Hon. Seth Thomas, the pioneer clock maker of Connecticut.

Rev. Wm. Webster Belden studied for the ministry in the Yale Divinity School, 1845-48, and began his ministry at Litchfield, Conn., in Dr. Lyman Beecher's old church. Was ordained, Aug. 23, 1848. He was successively pastor of the Fitch Memorial Church near Norwich, Ct., Attleboro, Mass., Bristol, Ct., (June 1870, four years) and Newburyport, Mass. After nearly 50 years he returned to West Hartford, Ct., his early home.

Of his third marriage the press gave the following account: "The two first knew each other as schoolboy and girl, sixty years ago in Thomaston, and grew up to be sweethearts as he prepared for college, and she finished her education in the village school. When the young man went to college the two corresponded and renewed their pledges of constancy from time to time. But old Seth Thomas had no sympathy with higher education, and desired that his daughter should marry a mechanic like himself. He frowned on the suit sternly, and eventually broke the engagement. He expressed contempt for a reader of poetry and a lover of books. The young folks separated, and in the course of years lost sight of each other. In time Miss Thomas married a farmer, George Gilbert, and, truth to tell, lived happily with him for a quarter of a century. He soon became a large holder in the stock of the manufacturing companies of her father. At his death she inherited his fortune, and eventually that of her father also. Young Belden finished his college course, and has for half a century been connected with many of the smaller Connecticut churches. He too married, and in time lost his wife. A few months ago a friend spoke of the gentle Mrs. Gilbert living alone in Thomaston. Mr. Belden wrote to his former sweetheart, and found that half a century had not abated her regard for him, and the two hearts were reunited."

He died Dec. 6, 1901, in New Haven, Ct. His second wife died in 1896. Other dates not obtained.

CHILDREN: (Belden) William Passmore; Benjamin, d. 1865, aged 5 years and 5 months.

Paul Leicester Ford was crippled for life by a fall from his nurse's arms, and so was unable to attend college, but from his father's ample library, compiled many works and developed a fine literary taste and became a writer of great promise. He m. in 1900, Miss Mary Grace Kidder, of Brooklyn and settled in a beautiful home purchased from the sales of a single novel. He was shot and killed, Thursday, May 8, 1902, by his brother, Malcolm Webster Ford, who then shot and instantly killed himself. Malcolm had been disinherited by his father because of his absorption in athletic sports. His father died in 1891. Malcom claimed that his brothers and sisters agreed to share the estate with him and the will was probated without contest. This agreement if made, was not committed to writing and in a later contest the case was decided adversely to Malcom, whose mind, it is claimed, became unbalanced and the double tragedy followed.

(7) Emily Ellsworth Ford, m. Apr. 21, 1891, at Brooklyn, N. Y., Roswell Skeel, Jr. Res. 1914, Irvington-on-Hudson.

Mrs. Skeel has edited "Notes on the Life of Noah Webster," in two volumes, compiled by her mother, Emily Ellsworth Fowler Ford, deceased, and privately printed in 1912, by members of the Ford family. Mrs. Skeel says in the Introduction: "My mother never finished this biography of her grandfather. . . . The earlier chapters were largely based upon a manuscript prepared by Rev. Leonard Bacon, which formed the beginning of an intended biography of the lexicographer. The intention of Mr. Bacon was for some reason abandoned, but what he had written was preserved, and is now in the New York Public Library."

These volumes are a compilation of Mr. Webster's diary, correspondence, essays, with a sketch of the early Webster family (appendix), including personal reminiscences by Mrs. Ford, which are among the best features of the book. The pen-touches of Mrs. Ford give a life-likeness and tone to the great man's character which are usually lost in the drapery of the great scholar. To all desiring a fuller insight into the labors and triumphs of Dr. Webster, this work is commended.

Capt. Lynn was an officer in Morgan's Regiment, War of Revolution. William Eugene Webster entered Trinity College, Hartford, Ct., which he left before graduating, to enter West Point, where he remained for two years, when he was obliged to leave on account of ill health. He then became a civil engineer. Being in Cumberland, Md., on the breaking out of the War of the Rebellion, he entered the cause of the South, and with his family made his way to Richmond, where he became Chief Executive officer of the Richmond Arsenal. At the battle of Cold Harbor, on a call at noon, by Gen'l Rhodes, to whose staff he belonged, for volunteer aids, he entered his services. Mrs. Gen'l Lee entreated him not to go into the battle, but he rode to the window, threw in his purse and replied, "I must for the afternoon." He was killed by the bursting of a shell while in the act of dashing forward to rally a broken line. His first battle was his last. He died June 27, 1862. The Regiment underwent a thorough training at Washington, D. C., for engineer duty. Afterwards, in McClellan's campaign on the Peninsula, Lieut. Webster was detailed to superintend the building of two bridges over the Chickahominy river near Richmond, and after to see to their destruction on McClellan's retreat. In this duty he labored with five hundred men of his command, waist deep in water for 18 days, and frequently under fire of the enemy. His labor and exposure brought on a fever, he became very ill, and was taken to New Haven, Ct., to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Prof. Chauncey A. Goodrich, where he died Aug. 9, 1862. He and his brother were devotedly attached to each other, but from their situations at the opening of the war, conscientiously embraced opposite sides, William Eugene following the line of his mother in Virginia, and Calvert Stuart the line of his father and his New England ancestry. SECTION 2.—Children of Ashbel (Ashbel, Jonathan "the miller," Jonathan, Dea. Jonathan, Robert, Gov. John) and Mercy (Swetland) Webster of Bolton, Ct., Cazenovia (Union), Madison Co., and Cuba, Allegany Co., N. Y.

1. Plumley Webster, b. Jan. 8, 1779, m. (1) Sep. 17, 1801, probably at Cazenovia, N. Y. (Union), Lydia Pond, and (2) Mrs. Harriet Straight.

Real estate records show that Plumley Webster purchased land of William Dow, on lot 89, town of Fabius, N. Y., July 18, 1806. Also that he bought land of Munson Pond in the town of Truxton, N. Y., Sep. 13, 1813, and later sells to William Berry, of the same place, Sep. 20, 1830.

Lydia Pond, the first wife of Plumley Webster, may have been a daughter of Munson Pond, or some relative of his. Plumley Webster finally settled in Cuba, Allegany Co., N. Y., near his brother Israel, and here spent the remainder of his life. Mrs. Philinda Vaughn, Franklinville, N. Y., Sept. 24, 1894, says: "Almost the first thing I can remember was hearing him (uncle Plumley) sing, as I lay in my trundle bed near the old fireplace in North Cuba. He fell, I think, in the Spring while making sugar, and injured his spine and broke his hip, making him a cripple for life, and making him crazy as long as he lived. Not long after this, his wife died, and his children moved to Illinois. He lived at my father's house for quite a while and then with aunt Mercy (Powers) for a long time. When her husband died, he came to our house again and staid until he died. He generally went once a year to visit uncle Israel and uncle George. His wife may have died before he was hurt."

He died in April, 1859, and is buried in the North Cuba Cemetery, although no stone marks the spot. CHILDREN: Byrum, b.

Aug. 2, 1802; Harriet; Hannah; Clara. Resumed in Chapter LXXIV.

2. Jesse Webster, b. Sep. 19, 1780, m. Mrs. Betsey Rouse, nee Daniels. She was a sister of John Daniels, Sr., and an aunt of John Daniels, Jr., of Fabius, N. Y., who married Esther Woodruff, dau. of Gurdon and Anna (Webster) Woodruff, of Keeney Settlement. Jesse Webster lived on the West side of Chautauqua Lake,  $2\frac{1}{2}$  miles South of Mayville, Chautauqua Co., N. Y., on Wilcox Bay, and died about 1837, and is supposed to be buried in Hunt's Cemetery. But M. R. Webster personally searched that cemetery, Aug. 19, 1908, and the new cemetery near by, and the Magnolia Cemetery south of Chautauqua, and found no tombstone to mark the place. CHILDREN: Elon, drowned at 9 years. The end.

3. Ashbel Webster, a farmer, b. Feb. 15, 1783, mar. (1) at De Ruyter, Madison Co., N. Y., Nov. 2, 1804, Lois Page; and (2) Avis Burton, b. Sept. 15, 1791.

It is not known who the parents of Lois Page were. But real estate transactions show that Dec. 6, 1805, Daniel Page sells to Samuel Page, both of DeRuyter, N. Y., and both have dealings with Ephriam Page of Canaan, Columbia Co., N. Y. These were probably close relatives. John Page was a brother of Lois Page.

Avis Burton was a sister of John Ellis Burton of Madison, Madison Co., N. Y., and William Burton of New York City. Who their parents were has not been learned. John Ellis Burton left home at nine years of age, a year after the death of his father. Some say that he learned his trade, harness making, at Bridgeport, Ct.; others at Salem, Mass. He m. in Cheshire, Berkshire Co., Mass., July 25, 1814, Esther Carpenter. He settled in Madison, N. Y., about 1808, in which case he retracted his steps to Cheshire, Mass., to claim his bride. It is said that John Ellis Burton was born in Rhode Island in 1786. It is surmised that his father's name was John, since the name was given this son, and Avis Burton Webster gave the name to her son, John Burton Webster. It is quite possible that while the Burtons were from Rhode Island, these belonged to the Stratford, Fairfield Co., Ct., branch, among whom Judson Burton is a common name, and John Ellis Burton named one of his sons Rufus Judson Burton.

About 1817, Ashbel Webster went into Susquehanna Co., Penn., to clear land, saw lumber, and make for himself a home. He located somewhere on the Hop Bottom Creek, one says "ten miles south of Montrose, at a place there known as Beech Woods, within seven miles of the Susquehanna River." Here was born their last child, John Burton Webster, Feb. 15, 1819, and in a little more than thirteen months, Avis, the mother, died. Her body was carried several miles to a clearing and buried on a farm owned by Mr. Wright. Ashbel Webster sold his land to Palta Swetland, and the grave was about two miles from that farm. The husband cut her name and other data in a stone and placed it at the head of her grave. It was standing soon after 1860, but later efforts to locate the grave have been unavailing. After her death the husband returned to Cazenovia (Union) with his children and the puny babe of fifteen months. He was soon injured in the month of May by a yoke of oxen. After an apparent recovery, he worked two or three weeks for Mr. Ebenezer Fuller, when "a serious condition with his side developed, and after a lingering illness of three years, he died at the home of his father, March 7, 1823. This in part is the account given by his brother, Israel Swetland Webster, of Cuba, N. Y., to the writer Sep. 17, 1878.

He was buried in a little Cemetery not far from the house, and the tombstone is inscribed: "Ashbil Webster, Jr., died Mar. 7, 1823, in the 40th year of his age.

"His mind was tranquil and serene,
No terror in his looks was seen;
His Saviour's smile dispelled the gloom,
And smoothed his passage to the tomb."

His first wife died at De Ruyter, N. Y., June 17, 1807; and his second wife at Hop Bottom, Susquehanna Co., Pa., April 9, 1820, and he at Cazenovia (Union), N. Y., March 7, 1823.

Polly Matilda Whitney removed with her parents from Granville, N. Y., in 1804 to Fleming, Cayuga Co., N. Y., and in 1823 to Oakland Co., Mich. Chester Webster died at Pontiac, Mich. The following is taken from a published memoir appearing at the time. "On Thursday, Aug. 28, 1884, Chester Webster, one of the first settlers in Oakland county died at his home in the township of Pontiac, in the 90th year of his age, after a lingering illness of several months, attributable rather to his extreme age than to any other cause. Mr. Webster was born in Westfield, Washington county, N. Y., Jan. 13, 1795, and moved thence when five years old to Fabius, Onondaga County, N. Y. He remained there until 1821 when he came to Michigan, arriving here Oct. 12 of that year. He at first lived with his uncle, Aaron Webster, Auburn, this county, and accompanied Capt. Parks on a survey expedition to Genesee county in the fall of 1821. Two years later he went back to the State of New York, and returning to Michigan married Miss Polly Matilda Whitney Dec. 7, 1823, in the township of Troy, this county, Johnson Niles, a Justice of the Peace, performing the marriage ceremony. Mr. Webster at once purchased and improved the farm which was to be his homestead for the next sixty-one years, the remainder of his lifetime. Nature had endowed Mr. Webster with a strong will and an iron constitution. Until broken down by affliction he was a man of great industry, energy and perseverance, and, until in his declining years, possessed good judgment and a rare memory. At the time of his death he had thirty-six grandchildren, and nineteen great grandchildren."

4. Abel Webster, b. Oct. 13, 1812, a merchant, was left an orphan at the age of 8 years. Began early to take care of himself. At the age of 17 years, taught his first school, at Attica, N. Y. At the age of 23 became partner of Nelson Wolcott, in general merchandize store, at Java, N. Y.

In 1837 removed to Wethersfield, N. Y., and went into partnership with his father-in-law, Ormus Doolittle, in general trade. At the age of 25, was elected Supervisor of Wethersfield. In 1845, ran on Whig ticket for Member of State Assembly, and was defeated by one vote. In 1846, was elected County Clerk of Wyoming County, and removed his family to Warsaw, the County Seat, and held the office for three years. He then engaged in the dry goods business in Warsaw, and continued in that business until his death. He was also at various times interested in other business enterprises; carried on a lumberyard for several years; was interested in a foundry; also owned and carried on a saw-mill in Allegeny County. He took great interest in the growth of Churches and Schools; was a vestryman of Trinity Church at Warsaw, and a trustee of the public schools for a number of years; and was several times elected Supervisor of the town. He was ambitious and although fighting poor health accumulated a snug fortune, the greater part of which he lost through an intriguing partner just before his death.

He mar. at Wethersfield Springs, N. Y., Dec. 16, 1835, Caroline Doolittle, daughter of Ormus and Lydia (Rood) Doolittle, b. at Wethersfield Springs, May 11, 1816. Her father, with his brother Reuben, were among the first settlers in that part of the country, laid out and mostly built their village; gave lands for and built St. Clements Church, and her father, late in life, founded Doolittle Institute, an Episcopal School, including four buildings, at Wethersfield Springs. She was well educated for the times, attending the Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, at Lima, N. Y., where, among other things, she became proficient in music. After her husband's death, she resided at Wethersfield Springs until 1873, when she removed to Midland, do Co., Mich., where she died, Sept. 1, 1884; he having died at Warsaw, N. Y., Oct. 16, 1861.

SECTION 3.—Children of Mabel (Jonathan, Jonathan "the miller," Jonathan, Dea. Jonathan, Robert, Gov. John) Webster and her husband Samuel Fox of Orford Parish, East Hartford, Ct., Keeney Settlement, and West Dryden, Tompkins Co., N. Y.

1. Edmund Fox, b. March 31, 1788, at Glastonbury, Ct., a farmer, mar. March 9, 1810, in Fabius, Onondaga Co., N. Y., Sally, daughter of Reuben and Rebecca (Keeney) Cadwell, b. in East Hartford, Ct., April 10, 1791.

Reuben Cadwell, b. June 28, 1763, was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, from East Hartford, Ct. Enlisted, Apr. 1778, "for the war" under Capt. John P. Wyllys, and Col. Samuel Wyllys. He was the son of Matthew and Mary Vansant (or Van Zant) Cadwell of East Hartford, Ct. Matthew Cadwell, b. 1740, was the son of John and Dorothy (Kilborn) Cadwell of Hartford, Ct. John Cadwell, b. Nov. 30, 1702, was the son of Matthew and Abigail (Beckley) Cadwell of Hartford, Ct. Matthew Cadwell, b. Oct. 5, 1668, was the son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Stebbins) Cadwell, the settler and ferryman of Hartford, Ct.

Mary Vansant was of East Windsor Hill. Her mother, Hannah Vansant made a Will Jan. 28, 1783, in which bequests are made to her son, Christopher Vansant, and the following "to my children:" John Vansant, Anne Vansant, Mabel Loveland, wife of Lot Loveland; Mary Cadwell, wife of Matthew Cadwell, Sarah Ritter, wife of Daniel Ritter, and the heirs of my daughter, Hannah Cole, deceased. Witnesses: John Wells, Richard Risley, Samuel Wells.

Hannah Vansant, who made the above Will, was the dau. of John Risley, Jr., of Hartford, Ct., (John, Richard, Richard) and Hannah Keeney, dau. of Joseph and Hannah (Hills) Keeney of Glastonbury, Ct. Hannah Vansant was own sister of Mabel Risley, wife of Jonathan Webster, bap. Oct. 7, 1705, son of Jonathan and Esther (Judd) Webster, which see. Joseph Keeney, b. 1666, was the son of Alexander Keeney of Wethersfield, Ct.

Joseph Hills was an early householder in Glastonbury, Ct., and his dau. Hannah Hills married the above Joseph Keeney. In his Will, dated May 2, 1713, Joseph Hills of Glastonbury makes bequests as follows: "To my present wife, Elizabeth; to my sons, Joseph Hills and Henry Hills; to my daughters, Hannah Keeney, Susannah Kilburn, and Dorothy Hollister. To Benoni Hills, but it is not said that he is a son. March 12, 1699, Joseph Hills of Glastonbury gave two pieces of land, 12 acres in all, "for fatherly love," "to my daughter, Hannah Keeney, and my son-in-law, Sergt. Joseph Keeney of Hartford," the land, in or near Hoccanum, bounded by Richard Risley, Jonathan Hills, John Haynes. Witnesses: Eleazer and Thomas Kimberly. Thus, through Mary Vansant, mother of Reuben Cadwell, father of Sally Cadwell, who married Edmund Fox, appears the line of Alexander Keeney of Wethersfield, Richard Risley (Wrisley) one of the founders of Hartford, and Josephine Hills of Glastonbury, Ct.

Edmund Fox removed with his father about 1810, to Dryden, Tompkins Co., N. Y., but the influence of the Cadwells and other relatives who remained in Fabius, led to their return, about 1824. They spent the remainder of their lives on the "old Fox farm" in Keeney Settlement. From a memorial written at the time of his death, the following is an extract:

"Mr. Webster was on his return home, after spending a few months in California for his health, and was taken suddenly ill, and died of pleuro pneumonia. He was born in Hampton, Washington Co., N. Y., Jan. 10, 1824. He received an Academic education at the Troy Conference Academy, Poultney, Vermont, and came west when 24 years of age, and settled in what is now the town of Omro, Wis. Mr. Webster was a man of calm judgment, and for his courteous regard for the feelings and opinions of other men, was universally respected. He was honored with the confidence of his neighbors and fellow townspeople, who frequently selected him for places of trust and responsibility. For thirty years past he had occupied some position in the public affairs of this community, all the way from district clerk to a member of the Assembly. So long as it was agreeable to him to do so he represented his town in the county board, and in 1878 he was elected a member of the legislature of 1878-80, and was re-elected the next year, serving two years. His mother was a woman of strong character and earnest piety, and through her influence he came to man's estate, thoroughly grounded in right principles of action, and determined to conform his life to a high moral standard. Although not a communicant of any church, Mr. Webster was a believer in God and in the great fundamental truths of religion, and a liberal supporter of the church. The last months of his life were spent upon the Pacific coast, and though he was suffering from feeble health, they were full of delightful experiences." The end.

widow) Crane. Res., 1899, Unionville, Hartford Co., Conn. He d. March 23, 1904.

A most remarkable coincidence was the death yesterday afternoon of two aged brothers, at the same time and of the same disease, but in different places. Martin and Alpheus Porter died at 2:30 o'clock of the grip, of which both had been ailing about a week. Martin died at his home in Avon, while Alpheus expired at his home in Farmington. Neither knew that the other was ill.

Martin Porter was 91 years and 6 months and 26 days old, while Alpheus was 89 years and 3 mos. old. Both were prominent men in the neighborhoods in which they lived and died. Both were born in a house which stood on the same land as the house in which Martin died now stands.

Although both brothers outlived their wives, both celebrated their golden weddings, Alpheus in 1902 and Martin in 1887. The brothers had commissions in the Union army during the Civil war, Martin being captain. Martin Porter was for many years engaged in the lumber business in the South, but he returned to his native town many years ago. Alpheus was one of the first daguerreotypers in this state, learning the business from Broadbent, who was taught by Daguerre.

Both brothers were greatly interested in the Russian-Japanese war, and followed the movements of the armies on large maps which they had tacked on the walls of their rooms. The brothers will be buried together in Unionville on Saturday. Separate services will be held where each died and a double funeral will be held later in the Stone Church at Unionville.

Both funeral processions met simultaneously without either waiting a moment for the other.

7. Rev. Sylvester Munroe Webster, b. Oct. 19, 1820, a farmer and minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church. "The History of Methodism in Wisconsin," says of him.

"The first minister appointed to this charge (Maxville Mission, Buffalo Co., West Wisconsin Conference, 1857) was Sylvester M. Webster. He came as a volunteer under Elder Bolles' direction, and labored with great success. The religious awakening which attended his labors was not confined to his charge. The work spread over four counties, viz., Buffalo, Pepin, Dunn and Eau Claire. The whole valley of the Chippewa felt its influence. Many of the converts were among the roughest specimens of humanity—raftsmen, river men and lumbermen. He was admitted into Conference in 1857; ordained Deacon by Bishop Scott in 1860, at Sparta, Wis., and received a location in 1863."

He was of a sanguine, hopeful temperament, and though he lost financially in a saw mill and other ventures, and removed to Marshall Co., Minn., where he located on a farm, and toiled hard to extricate himself from his difficulties, he continued to preach to the end of his life. In this his wife was a helpmate indeed, being a female preacher, of touching and pathetic address.

Jan. 4, 1899.

He was a total abstainer from intoxicants and tobacco, and when a farmer he united with others in a league not to sell grain for distillation. He often found it difficult to rally men to the raising of his buildings because he would not allow strong drink on such occasions.

"He lived to see six generations of his family, and he represented at that time four generations, every voter being a Republican. He often related an interesting gathering which occurred at the house of his uncle Lyman at Hudson, N. Y., the occasion being the re-union of a father and five brothers, the first time all had met after an absence of fifty years. The day of the meeting they visited a photographer where they had their pictures taken in a group. In the evening they held a prayer meeting where they united their voices in praise and prayer, all being professed followers of Christ. Their united ages at death was about 535 years, being an average of about 90 years; their united weight was some over one thousand pounds. The grandfather's two brothers reached the advanced age of one hundred, and one hundred and ten years respectively."

She was educated at the Washington Seminary for Young Ladies, in Connecticut, which institution is now closed. She afterward went West with her family, and there, at Waukegan, Ill., met Mr. Payne, who was about to graduate from the Law School of the University of Chicago, which he did in 1860. In the Fall of the same year he was admitted to the bar, and began to practice in the United States Courts. Mr. Payne is the grandson of Judge Elisha Payne, founder of Hamilton, N. Y. He went to Illinois from Seneca Falls, N. Y., with his parents in 1837.

He was, in April, 1861, one of a committee of three to organize a Company at Waukegan; enlisted himself April 17, 1861, and served as Lieutenant for three months. Returning to Waukegan, he organized a company for three years; joined the 37th Regiment of Illinois Infantry as Captain of Company C. He served for three years and a half; being promoted to Major, thence to Lieutenant Colonel; Brevetted Colonel, and afterward appointed Brevet Brigadier General.

General Payne participated in twenty-one battles and skirmishes among which were, Pea Ridge, Prairie Grove, and the siege of Vicksburg; for bravery in these battles were his promotions given. He was Commander of the Post of Booneville, Mo., Oct., 1861—Jan., 1862, and Picket Officer of Gen'l Frank Herron's Division, at Vicksburg.

He was, in the Fall of 1864, elected to the General Assembly of Illinois, to represent Lake County. In 1866 he was again elected to the Legislature. In 1869, he refused all further political offices, and practiced law in Chicago from 1869–1886, when his health failed from the injuries he had received during the war, and he entered the government service as Special Examiner of Pensions, hoping to regain his health by the travel entailed in the business.

1. Sophia Jane Webster, b. Feb. 10, 1841, d. at Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 31, 1866.

2. Edward Hannegan Webster, b. Feb. 21, 1843, an Attorney and Real Estate Broker of Kansas City, Mo., was educated in the common schools of his native place, Benton, Ind. At sixteen he began learning the printer's trade in the office of "The Northern Indianian," at Warsaw, Ind.

The Civil War came on and he enlisted, April 19, 1861, at Warsaw, Ind., as a private in Company E, 12th Indiana Infantry, and was mustered in May 5th, 1861, for one year. The regiment was mustered into the United States service July 23d, 1861, and sent at once to Harper's Ferry, Va., where, six months later, he was promoted to Sergeant.

He was with his regiment at the capture of Martinsburg and Winchester, Va., when Gen'l Shields won against Stonewall Jackson. The regiment was discharged at the end of the year, May 19, 1862. Sergeant Webster immediately reenlisted, and helped to reorganize the regiment, which was mustered into the United States service for three years, August 17th, 1862, in which he was commissioned Second Lieutenant in Company F. He was subsequently detailed to duty as Inspector General on the staff of Gen'l John Mason Loomis commanding 1st Brigade, 1st Division, 15th Army Corps, Army of the Tennessee.

He took part, with his regiment, in the battle at Richmond, Ky., August 30th, 1862, where six thousand Union soldiers, under Gen'l Nelson, made an all-day fight against thirty thousand Confederates, under Gen'l Kirby Smith. The regiment lost 30 killed, and 143 wounded. The Union forces were finally all captured except about 800. Lieut. Webster, who had become separated in the darkness from his command, was making his way alone through the woods, carrying an empty musket, when he met, and, by strategy, captured three Rebel Cavalrymen, all heavily armed, and took them with him to Lexington.

He was at the siege of Vicksburg, and immediately upon its surrender, July 4th, went with the regiment to Jackson, Miss., where he was under fire from July 12th to 15th, when the place was taken. He was complimented for bravery in the battle of Missionary Ridge, November 24th, 1863. Was promoted to First Lieutenant, and took part in the battle of Resaca, Ga., May 28th, 1864, where he led a charge on the enemy's works. He fought also at Dallas and at New Hope Church, and was again complimented at the battle of Kenesaw Mountain.

With his regiment he was engaged in the battle of Beech Tree Creek, July 20th; Atlanta, July 22d; Ezra Church, July 28th, and August 3d, and Jonesboro, August 31st. He, with his regiment, accompanied Sherman in his "March to the Sea," and was engaged in the last battle of that campaign at Bentonville, N. C.

During his service he took part in twenty-one battles, marched with his regiment through Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South and North Carolina, a distance of more than six thousand miles, and at the close of Sherman's campaign, spring of 1864, he was promoted to Captain of Company A.

The Twelfth Indiana was a famous regiment. "Within an hour," says Reuben Williams in "The Northern Indianian," "three men gave up their lives," bearing the flag at Richmond, Ky., when 5,000 Federal troops withstood the assault of 30,000 Confederates. In the Grand Review of the Army of the Tennessee, at Washington, D. C., (Sherman's Veterans) the Regiment was given the right of the line, and was the first to pass the President's stand, Captain Webster with his Company A, leading. During his war service he was a number of times Judge Advocate of courts martial, and was the Recorder of Commissions in his Division. He was honorably discharged at Indianapolis, Ind. June 14, 1865. After the war, fall of 1865, he located in Kansas City, Mo. He began reading law at that time and in 1867 was admitted to the bar. In politics, Mr. Webster was a Republican. He was honored with the offices of City Assessor and Alderman. He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and a Mason.

In the summer of 1893, pressed by the suspension of several banks, he assigned his business. Failing health compelled him to seek other climates, and he spent six months in Mexico. Returning he settled in Denver, August, 1894, but died the December following, lying unconscious the last three weeks.

He married, Sep. 21, 1875, Medora Richardson, born Dec. 30, 1850, at New Holland, Ohio, youngest daughter of Nathaniel Rodney and Corilla (Shipley) Ferguson, early settlers of Kansas City from Ohio. Hon. Morris Catlin Webster was elected Speaker of the Legislature of Connecticut of 1913. For twenty-four years he has been Secretary and Superintendent of the New Britain (Conn.) Malleable Iron Works Company, interspersing his time with farming at Harwinton, his birth-place. He inherits the blessing of a good name, and an honorable and distinguished ancestry. Three of his ancestors were Revolutionary soldiers and one earned distinction by carrying General Arnold, when wounded, from the battlefield at Saratoga. Through his mother he is connected with the Catlin family, so many of whom have held prominent and responsible positions in the state. Mr. Webster was educated at Winchester Institute, then a flourishing military academy in charge of Col. Ira W. Pettibone, and began business in the employ of Hart, Merriam & Co., of Hartford where he remained six years. From Hartford he went to Milwaukee, thence to New York, then engaged for himself in business at Terryville, and in 1878 accepted the position of Secretary and Superintendent of the Malleable Iron Works in New Britain, which he still holds. In New Britain Mr. Webster began his political career. He served three years in the Common Council, is serving his twelfth upon the School Board, was Representative in the Legislature of 1897, 1911 and 1913, and has served two years as Mayor. He was a state Building and Loan Commissioner from 1901 to 1907. He has always been prominent in church work and is known as a believer in and a member of several secret societies in New Britain. His wife is a member of one of Connecticut's oldest families, one of those that settled Windsor in 1636.

Address, 1913, Terryville, Conn., R. F. D.

CHILDREN: (All born in Conn., the first at Terryville, the others at New Britain) Walter Barber, Nov. 12, 1876; Sarah Luella, May 28, 1879; Ellen Anna, July 24, 1882. All, 1913, unmarried. The end.

SECTION 5.—Children of Adaline Webster (Abijah, Amos, Capt. Moses, Ens. William, Robert, Gov. John) and her husband, George Hampton Julian, of Crossville, Lumpkin Co., Ga.

1. Hon. Abijah John Julian, b. Dec. 2, 1842 (see portrait) m. April 19, 1864, Minnie Amelia Bailey.

He was a Confederate soldier in the Civil War, serving fourteen months in the 43d Georgia Infantry; six months in Armstrong's Cavalry, and sixteen months in Gen. Joseph E. Wheeler's Cavalry. He continued in service until the surrender in North Carolina, April, 1865, receiving his pay-roll, May 4, 1865.

It was while a soldier that he married. His mother was the only white person on their farm, and he secured from Gen. Wheeler, at Tunnell Hill, Ga., a sixty-day furlough and went to Alabama, where Dr. S. S. Bailey, father of his intended, had taken refuge from Summerville, Ga., and was married, the wedding being thus hastened that his mother might have a white companion during his absence in the army. He returned to his command before his furlough expired.

After the war he spent four years as a merchant and bookkeeper, but owning a large farm at Wooley's Ford, in Forsyth Co., Ga., he returned to it with his mother, "improving," as he said, "my health as I improved my farm."

In 1880 he was elected to the Legislature, serving four years in the House, and two years in the Senate. In 1901 he secured a Rural free delivery mail line for his region, one of the first in Georgia, and the first in the 9th Congressional district. He established a Rural Telephone Line to Gainesville, Ga., which has grown to over forty lines. He has been President of "The Wooley's Ford Farmers' Telephone Company" since 1906.

He received the unanimous vote of the Democratic side of the House of Representatives in Congress for Doorkeeper, but being in the minority they could not elect him.

By appointment of the Governor of the State of Georgia, and by the direct vote of the people, he has held many offices of trust and honor. No act of his gives him greater pleasure than the deciding vote which he cast in the House which passed the Local Option Law, a bill which as Chairman of the Committee, he had brought forward. This was soon followed by state-wide prohibition.

Mr. Julian is a member of the Baptist church, having been up to 1913, fifty-four years a member, and forty years a Deacon; he is also a past-master mason. His res. '13, is Gainesville, Hall Co., Ga.

MOSES AND THEODOCIA BULL WEBSTER.—FIFTH, CHARLES AND HANNAH PHELPS WEBSTER.—SIXTH, CHILDREN OF CHARLES AND HANNAH PHELPS WEBSTER NAMED IN THE DIVISIONS OF THIS CHAPTER.—SEVENTH, GRANDCHILDREN OF CHARLES AND HANNAH PHELPS WEBSTER NAMED IN THE NUMBERED SECTIONS OF THIS CHAPTER.—EIGHTH, GREAT GRANDCHILDREN OF THE SAME NAMED IN THE NUMBERED PARAGRAPHS OF THIS CHAPTER, PRINTED IN HEAVY FACE TYPE.

First Division, showing the Great Grandchildren of Charles and Hannah Phelps Webster by their son, Ozias Webster of Harwinton, Ct., who married Hannah Merriam.

SECTION 1.—Children of William Burnham (Ozias, Charles, Capt. Moses, Ensign William, Robert, Gov. John) and Sarah Adelia (Hull) Webster of Harwinton, Burlington, New Britain, and Berlin, Ct.

1. William Holcomb Webster, a lawyer, (see portrait) b. January 24, 1839, at Burlington, Ct., was the lamented author of this book, whose death before its completion brought wide spread regret. The event was foreshadowed in his own mind, and a few years before it occurred, he confided to the final author (1891) the fear that he might not live to bring the work to publication, and requested him, in case his fears were realized, to finish the task, which a merciful Providence has permitted.

William Holcomb Webster was graduated from Trinity College, Hartford, Ct., in 1861, and he immediately enlisted as Second Lieutenant of Co. I, Fifth Connecticut Volunteers. He was discharged in 1863 for disabilities and returned to his home in Connecticut, where he soon became Provost-Marshall.

After the war he served in Louisiana during the reconstruction period. In 1869 he was appointed Chief of the Old War and Navy Division of the Pension Bureau, where he remained until 1886, a period of seventeen years. Here he did some of his best work, compiling, among other things, "Connecticut Men in the Revolution," a great volume published by the State of Connecticut. In it are gathered the names of the officers and soldiers of that period, by companies and regiments, and the pensioners, both men and widows. It was a matter of keen disappointment to Mr. Webster that his name was not allowed to appear in the volume, and credit was not given for his exceptional service in its production.

The fulness of the record of Websters and others whose names appear in this book, covering all the wars, is due chiefly to his familiarity with these official sources of information.

He completed a course in the Columbian Law School, and was graduated in 1871. In 1886, President Grover Cleveland appointed him Chief Examiner of the Civil Service Commission, and, until his death, he served in that capacity with distinguished ability.

On the occasion of his death, the Civil Service Commission met the day before his burial, and held a service, attended by all the employés of the Commission, and representatives of many of the Government Departments. Addresses were made, and these, with an official tribute were published in a memorial volume from which the following statement of his work is taken.

"On Monday afternoon, March twenty-third, Major William H. Webster, Chief Examiner of this Commission, died suddenly. At the beginning of the Commission's work, in 1883, Major Webster was Chairman of the Central Board of Examiners, on detail from the Pension Office, where he was a chief of division. Much of the credit of the organization of that board and its work belongs to his early efforts in the cause. On August 28, 1886, upon the advancement of Mr. Lyman, who was then Chief Examiner, to be Commissioner, Major Webster was appointed Chief Examiner by President Cleveland.

"The United States Civil Service Commission desires to record in its minutes an expression of its appreciation of the high character, unusual abilities, and manifold services of Major Webster, who for over nine years was Chief Examiner of the Commission. His death is a personal bereavement to each Commissioner, yet it is as a public official that they especially wish to speak of him here. From the enactment of the civil-service law he was interested in the work of the Commission, and every year increased his devotion and usefulness to the betterment of the public service. He was painstaking, faithful, and just in all his duties. His conclusions were formed only after thorough and conscientious consideration of the questions before him, but once formed, were sturdily maintained, yet always with courtesy and kindness.

"The Commission feels it due to the memory of Major Webster to make record of this official tribute, and it is ordered that this minute and the action of the Commission and its employés at the memorial meeting be communicated to the secretaries of the various boards throughout the service."

Commissioner John R. Proctor presided and said, "Coming into the building and finding the flag at half mast, and passing through the vacant rooms, I cannot address you. * * * I cannot fittingly express my feelings over my own great personal loss, and the great loss to you and to the public service. I will call upon my fellow-commissioners."

Commissioner William G. Rice spoke in part as follows: "‘He is not dead; he is just away,’ is a verse of James Whitcomb Riley’s which comes with special meaning as we think of the hearty man, alert to so many varied interests, who a few hours ago was our associate. There is, too, something peculiarly comforting and peaceful in the thought that his last earthly act was to take the attitude in which he prayed, and to know that as he knelt his spirit returned to the God who gave it. He was a faithful churchman, a brave soldier, strong in all his beliefs, firm in his friendships, painstaking in his work, seeking always to be just in his judgment. He was trusted, and was worthy of trust in every relation of life."

Commissioner John B. Harlow: "This friend of ours who has gone before us was a manly, brainy, conservative man, and a safe adviser. This Commission has lost by his death its right arm."

Hon. Charles Lyman, former Civil Service Commissioner: "I think that I rejoice in the fact that my friend, as I might have expected, was faithful to the end. In every duty, in every responsibility, in every relation of his life, so far as I know—and I know pretty well what his life was—he was faithful, honest, true, everywhere and to the last, and he went out as he had expected to go, suddenly. You all know, I suppose, or most of you, that he had looked forward to this kind of departure.

"A word about the life of this man. He was one of those of whom there are a great many, especially in New England, not poor in the sense that he was deprived of the ordinary blessings that make life comfortable in his boyhood, but poor in the sense that he was early compelled to make his own way in the world, to rely upon his own energies and exertions to advance his fortunes. He earned by one means or another money enough to take his course in college. When the war broke out in 1861 he was in his senior year in Trinity College, and, like a great many other patriotic young men, he left the college and went into the army and served throughout the war, served faithfully and served honorably, and at the close of the war still remained in the service and was assigned to duties which were trying, which were difficult, and which taxed the capacity of those persons who were assigned to them to the utmost—duties which required absolute integrity, ability of the highest order, and courage which knew no flinching. Major Webster fulfilled expectations in this service. Retiring from the army he entered the civil service of the Pension Office and rose through the various grades to the position of chief of one of the most important divisions in that office, and held that position until he became Chief Examiner of the Civil Service Commission. You all know what his life has been here and what his work has been here. I need not enlarge upon it. You can not know it better than I know it. When a vacancy occurred in this office in the position of Chief Examiner, it became a very serious matter who should fill it. There were applicants whose claims were pressed with the utmost persistency. Major Webster was not an applicant, but the Commission, in looking over the ground, in canvassing the field felt that it was wise and best for the public service to pass by all of those who had applied for the place and to ask the President to appoint him. He did appoint him. And I stand here today, after nine, almost ten, years from that time, to say, as I look back upon it, that no mistake was made. You know that no mistake was made. Major Webster, in every emergency, in every position in which he has been placed during these ten years of service as Chief Examiner, has been true to the oath which he took. He has performed his duties intelligently, faithfully, courageously, and impartially."

Mr. John T. Doyle: "Major Webster was one of those heroes who formed the blood and sinew by which our common country was preserved. He crowned his patriotic service in the war by aiding in peace to make our civil service purer. Times of peace have their victories as well as times of war. * * * It was almost a providential benefaction that the direction of the examinations (Civil Service) should have been put in the hands of a man of experience, industry, courage, self-reliance, honesty, and balance. A man of timid or vacillating mind would have retarded, if not wrecked, the infant work."

Mr. F. M. Kiggins: "As a public official his career at this office was one of untiring industry. He did not seem to know the limit to a day's work. He believed that he could not give too much time and thought to the work of this Commission, the cause which he loved so well, and in which he enlisted his best energies for so many years. * * * The Chief Examiner occupied a position in this office which required absolute integrity as well as the highest order of ability. As to his integrity, it was never questioned, and as to his ability, it has been seen and felt in the work of this Commission for many years."

Mr. Theodore L. DeLand: "I did not expect to speak today on Major Webster's death. No more did I expect two days ago that he would pass so suddenly from us. The day that he left the office for the last time I was in his room with him up to about half-past four. He was then happy and buoyant, and gave every evidence that he was in full possession of his health and strength. A few little matters were discussed. He said, "I will take them up with you in the morning." That morning is an indefinite time for me now. In one short half-hour after that conversation his noble spirit had passed away.

"I feel keenly Major Webster's death. I was related to him by distant ties of kinship. Two hundred years ago we had a common ancestor. It was one of the pleasures of Major Webster's life, one of his amusements, one of his pastimes, to search among the people of this country for those who were directly or indirectly related to him. It was a fascinating study for him. He knew more of our family history than we knew ourselves. He was an example of untiring industry. Long after the hour when ordinarily the official would close his desk and retire from the office, the Major would remain, diligently at work. I will take this occasion to say in public that he was a slave to duty. It has been said that when the Almighty gives life to the child he stores up in that child just so much physical and mental energy. I fear that Major Webster drew too rapidly upon his allotted energy. I am satisfied that he died of overwork."

Mr. Luther W. Covell: "I certainly think that of all the men with whom I have ever been associated, Major Webster was absolutely the most just and fair man that I ever had to deal with."

Mr. William J. Washburn: "He was more than a friend. He was a wise counsellor. He was a guide. He was an instructor. He had a reverence for law, human and divine, far surpassing that of most men. That was one of the strong traits of his character, and with this in view he always did what he had to do justly, honestly, and courageously. That he always acted intelligently no one can doubt. No one doubted his ability. No words of mine can do him justice. More eloquent than rhetorical expression and more enduring than Parian marble is the work he has done, the life he has lived, and his influence must remain with us."

Mr. F. E. Camp of the Pension Office: "During all the years that we worked side by side he was always the same. There was in him the most absolute devotion to duty, and in his work the most painstaking thoroughness that I ever saw in official life."

Mr. William J. Rhees of the Smithsonian Institution: "It affords me a melancholy pleasure to attend the memorial services of one so well entitled to honor and remembrance as Major W. H. Webster, and especially to testify of his interest and useful labors in the society of the "Sons of the American Revolution."

"As a patriotic citizen, who had borne arms himself in behalf of his country, he was deeply impressed with the objects of this society, which are 'to perpetuate the memory of the men who by their services or sacrifices during the War of the American Revolution achieved the independence of the nation; to unite and promote fellowship among their descendants; to inspire them and the community at large with a more profound reverence for the principles of the Government founded by our forefathers; to encourage historical research in relation to the American Revolution; to acquire and preserve the records of the individual services of the patriots of the war; to foster true patriotism, and to maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom.'"

"He became a member of the society on the 20th of April, 1891, a year after its organization, claiming descent as a great-grandson, on his paternal side, of Charles Webster, and on his maternal side of Diamond Clark, both having served with honor as privates in the Connecticut Militia during the War of the Revolution. He took the deepest interest in the society, faithfully attended all its meetings, served on its committees of 'Advancement' and 'Recruiting,' and was elected in 1895 on the board of managers and as historian. In the latter capacity he read at the last annual meeting, February 22, 1896, obituary notices of the members who had died during the year. He served during the last six months on the committee to prepare a year book or register of the society, in which genealogies of the members and records of the revolutionary services of their ancestors are to be published. To this work he gave unremitting attention, and his painstaking efforts to secure accuracy and to eliminate errors, either of statement or in typography, were of the highest value and importance. He was well fitted for this task, having been engaged for several years in editing the 'Record of Connecticut Men in the War of the Revolution,' published by the State, and also having undertaken an extensive genealogical work relating to his own family."

Mr. S. Herbert Giesy, Trinity, '85: "I did not expect this privilege of expressing my esteem and affection for Major William H. Webster, and I can hardly add anything to the tributes so earnestly paid that able and genial man by his colaborers in the Civil Service Commission. But as a fellow alumnus of Trinity College, as a brother in his college fraternity, Psi Upsilon, and as a member of St. Thomas' Church, where I saw him Sunday after Sunday, I would not be properly regardful of his friends in those several associations if I did not here voice the affection and regard that they felt for him. We of Trinity College are proud of his abilities and of what he has accomplished as Chief Examiner of the Civil Service Commission and as the friend and exponent of the reform which that Commission represents. The graduates of that institution will be extremely proud to hear of the estimate placed upon Major Webster's work by the active workers for the improvement of the civil service and the admiration which they felt for his many personal qualities.

"He said to me once, 'I am a Joiner.' He was. He belonged to the Sons of the American Revolution, he was a Mason, he belonged to the Loyal Legion, and was a member of a Grand Army post. * * * A Trinity Alumni meeting never occurred without his presence."

These are samples of the estimates of his character and achievements given by a few of the twenty-three speakers at the memorial services. They have been selected because they cover the main facts in his history, and each accentuates some phase of his varied life.

As noted above, he was a member of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Masonic fraternity, the Grand Army of the Republic, the Alumni of Trinity College, and a member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society.

3. Joseph Elijah Webster, b. Oct. 27, 1825, m. Nancy Belcher. On the occasion of his death, July 19, 1907, the following facts appeared in the public press:

"‘Uncle Joe,’ as he was affectionately and familiarly known, was one of the best known men in Verona township. In religious belief he was a Universalist, in politics a strong Democrat. With a better education than most, in his early manhood he held many offices of trust in this county. In later years for many terms he was an assessor of taxes. He was a fine historian and astronomer and a keen and remarkably successful sportsman. Full of dry wit, he was a genial companion. Since the death of his wife, Nancy Belcher Webster, which occurred fourteen years ago on the 6th day of August, he had lived most of the time alone, until fourteen months ago, when the widow of his foster son left her home in Towner, North Dakota, and came to care for him. His last year was one of the happiest of his life. Although his memory was impaired, owing to his advanced years, it was his good fortune to remember well the happy incidents of his life."

His wife, Nancy Belcher, died Aug. 6, 1893, and he, July 19, 1907, and both are buried in the Durhamville, N. Y., Cemetery. CHILDREN: (adopted) George Harper Webster.

George Harper Webster died suddenly in New York City, March 13, 1903, of heart disease, aged 57 years. He left a widow and two daughters, Miss Leitzia and Mrs. James J. Engineer Webster's death was the result of injuries received in a collision, which took place on the Vermont Central Railway between Randolph and Bethel, April 24, 1868. He was running a down freight train. On arriving at Randolph he received an order to meet an up-passenger train which was late at Bethel. He immediately left Randolph, running at the rate of speed specified in the time table, viz, 12 miles per hour. But unfortunately, when within about three-fourths of a mile of Bethel, just as his engine was turning a very sharp curve, on the inside of which were high rocks completely obscuring the track, he encountered the up-passenger train, running at a high rate of speed, the conductor and engineer of which had run by the station, Bethel, designed as their meeting place. The concussion was terrific. Both engines were totally wrecked, destroying the first two cars and their contents of the freight train, instantly killing the baggage master, severely injuring the express messenger, and bruising and horribly scalding engineer Webster. "Mr. Webster acquired a good sound education. At the age of nineteen, by his own choice, and through the efforts of friends of the family, he was made a sailor on board a whaler, and started on an extended cruise which took him around the world. For four years Mr. Webster followed the sea, but returned in 1847 to his home, his parents meantime having moved to Orangeville, N. Y. For several years after his marriage he followed the vocation of a school teacher, with much success. In 1861 Mr. Webster united with the Baptist church at Dale, of which he has always remained a faithful member. For three terms he efficiently served the town as supervisor, and for fifteen years he held the office of justice of the peace. For many years also he had acted as a clerk on the election board."

June 5, 1907, a family social gathering was held to celebrate the 58th wedding anniversary of the above couple, three miles west of Pittsford in the town of Henrietta, both life-long and highly respected residents of this vicinity. They are a remarkable couple in respect to longevity, activity, and health. The parents of both Mr. and Mrs. Peets came from Massachusetts and settled here during the early history of the town. Mrs. Peets was a daughter of Elijah Webster and was born in the house in which she now lives; indeed, she has spent almost her entire life there. She is still a busy housewife, employing her time doing all the work, including washing, ironing and butter making. Mr. Peets works on the farm every day, drives fine horses and all last summer and fall worked a three-horse team. He prides himself on being able to keep up with the young men in harvesting. Both will reach another milestone in their lives on June 24th.

"Mr. and Mrs. Peets served a splendid supper, covers being laid for thirty-three. At the first table were seated Mr. and Mrs. Peets with their four children, Mrs. Willett Chase, of Henrietta; Henry Peets, of Brighton; Charles Peets of Henrietta, and Mrs. Frank Lusk, of Pittsford. At the second table were grandchildren, Mrs. Frank Abbott and Frank Chase, of Henrietta; Harry, Charles and Lemuel Lusk, of Pittsford, and Lemuel Peets of Henrietta, and at the third table were the great grandchildren, Edna, Gertrude and Florence Lusk, children of Harry Lusk; Charles, Francis and Franklin Lusk, sons of Charles Lusk, and Earl and Howard Chase, of Henrietta, sons of Frank Chase. Those who are married were accompanied by their husbands and wives."

Both died in Henrietta, N. Y., he, May 22, 1909, and she, Dec. 2, 1910. CHILDREN: (Peets) (First born at Pittsford; the others in town of Henrietta) Helen Estella, May 22, 1850; Addie Lunette, Mch. 15, 1852; Henry Francis, Oct. 5, 1853; Charles Wilton, July 1, 1864.

Franklin B. Lusk died Aug. 25, 1910. "His father was Herman Lusk; his grandfather, Stephen, and his great grandfather, John Lusk, were also well known and prominent citizens here, and the latter and his son came to the Genesee country in 1787. They came from Connecticut by way of Canandaigua over an Indian trail and brought stock with them. They passed through Pittsford and settled near the head of Irondequoit Bay. There they built a log house and lived three years, seeing no white men. In 1790 they returned to Connecticut, to bring other members of the family, and in 1791 purchased a large tract of land here, much of which remains in the Lusk family."

He leaves a wife and three sons, Harry, Charles, Lemuel, all of Pittsford, N. Y., and seven grandchildren.

David Webster Kenyon crossed the plains for the California Gold Mines in 1853. Though often assaulted by the Indians, no lives were lost and he arrived safely. In 1858 he went to the Frazier River Gold Mines in British Columbia, and remained three or four months, selling provisions, etc., at prevailing prices, viz.: $1. per pound. He then returned to Portland, Oregon, where he remained till 1859, going then to his present home, Hayes, Washington. He has been twice elected Justice of the Peace.

In 1852 the young girl who afterward became his wife crossed the plains with her parents. Rev. Daniel White Gardner was the leader of the train. They were six months crossing, imperiled by Indians and cholera, but safely reached Hayes, Clark Co., Washington. For a time the hostility of the Indians prevented even the planting of a garden, but at length the trouble ceased, and Hayes has since been their home.

He m. (2) July 11, 1904, at Berkeley, Cal., Mrs. Alwilda A. Alpaugh, nee Reed, b. July 7, 1849, at Auburn, Ohio.

He was raised on a farm and worked with his father in the wagon shop, where he learned blacksmithing. He learned the carpenter's trade outside the shop. He enlisted in Company F, 4th Michigan Infantry in the Fall of 1861, and served in that Regiment and in Company C, 1st Michigan Infantry, as a private, until the expiration of his term, Sep. 10, 1864, when he was discharged near Petersburg, Va. He took part in all the battles his command was engaged in, and was slightly wounded in the seven days' fight near Richmond, Va. His Regiment was in the 2d Brigade, 1st Division, 5th A. C. After his discharge he returned to Michigan and bought a steam saw-mill which he ran until the Spring of 1866, when he sold out and moved to Oakland, Cal., where he bought a few acres of land, in what is now Berkeley, where he lived until 1883, when he removed to Sacramento, Cal. He has been employed at Sacramento on the inside work of passenger cars, for the C. P. & S. P. R. R. Co. He is a member of Summer Post, G. A. R., at Sacramento.

Noah Norton Webster (see portrait) writing to the Hudson, Mich., Post, says, "I like to get news from Hudson and the surrounding country, my boyhood home. I enlisted there in Co. F. of the old Fourth in 1861. Soon after returning following the war, I came out here to Berkeley, Cal., at that time B. was new and all a farming country. Years later I got Webster street opened, which was named for me, so I have made my mark here, if not in the army.

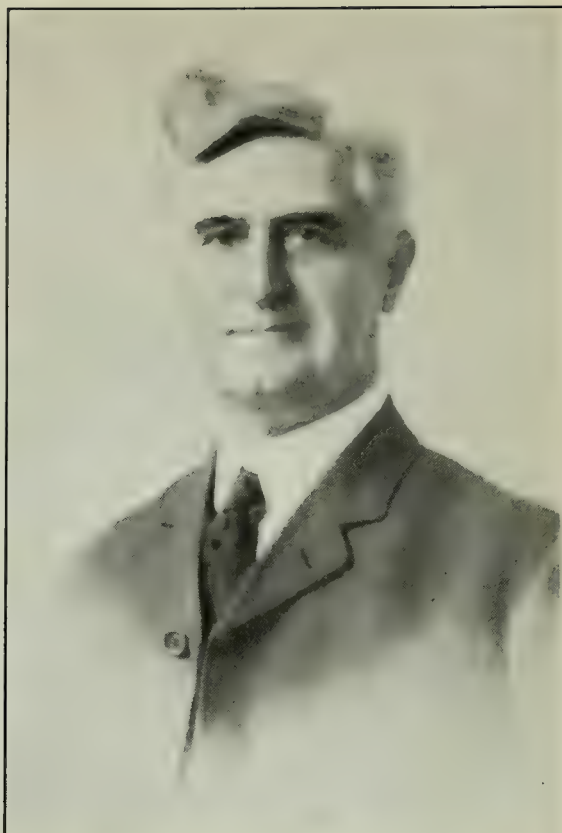

I had two sons. Both were killed. The last, after going through the war at Manilla, was killed at Cripple Creek, Col. (see portrait); as noble and fine a young man as was in that army, so it was for his honor and name, and also my father's and mother's, and also my own, that I presented the Norton-Webster Park to the City of Hudson, thinking it would benefit more people that way, than I could in almost any other way. It will be a pleasure spot and a credit to Hudson, and an honor of our family name.

Five of us enlisted and went out from Hudson. My last boy went from Berkeley, Cal., and returned with honors. He was an electric and steam engineer." Hoped that Hudson would improve Park. Editorial: Noah Norton was Webster's grandfather on his mother's side; was an officer in war of 1812, and also Mexican war. Was a pioneer in Cal., and 1849 discovered the Cole mines at Mt. Diablo, and built the first house in Nortonville, a town named after him. His years were spent with his grandson, Noah, at whose house he died.

His wife died at Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 5, 1889. He resided '93 at 2627 Q St., Sacramento. Res. 1904, 802 Madison St., Oakland, Cal. 1913, 2500 Webster St., Berkeley, Cal. CHILDREN: (All b. at Oakland, Alameda Co., Cal.) Ida May, May 28, 1870; Galinda Castro, April 28, 1874, d. Oakland, Aug. 31, 1874; Norton Allen, March 3, 1880.

(2) Norton Allen, a steam and electric engineer, was killed in a mine disaster at Cripple Creek, Colorado, Feb. 4, 1906. Unmarried. He was a proficient engineer and helped to build and operate one of the largest electric plants and railroads in Oakland and Berkeley, Cal. The end.

4. George Austin Webster, b. Dec. 19, 1843, enlisted soon after opening of war, probably in a Michigan Regiment. Served about one year and then enlisted in September, 1863, in 11th Michigan Cavalry, and served as Corporal and Sergeant to close of war, and was discharged in August, 1865. After the war he was in the employ of Michigan Central R. R., and lost his life Feb. 10, 1875. He did not marry. The end.

He began, in early life, the trade of carpenter (a trade in which a number of his family was engaged), later studied law with Mr. L. O. Aiken of Moravia, Cayuga Co., N. Y., but on becoming a communicant of the Episcopal Church, he began the study of Theology with the Rev. William D. Wilson, a Prof. of Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y., in whose family he lived for three years. He was ordained Deacon by the Rt. Rev. De Lancy, Bishop of Western New York, and commenced his ministry at Christ's Church, Jordan, Onondaga Co., N. Y., where he officiated as Rector for eleven years. When the war of the Rebellion broke out, he was appointed Chaplain of the 27th Regiment of N. Y. Vol's. Nov. 1, 1862, was present at the battle of Fredericksburg, and was discharged from the service May 1, 1863.

He then returned to his old Church, built and consecrated a new Church, and then accepted a call to St. John's Parish, Cornwall, Orange Co., N. Y. After a rectorship of thirteen months, he returned to the Diocese of Western New York, and took charge of the Parish of Zion Church, Palmyra, Wayne Co., N. Y. He retained the rectorship of this parish for eighteen years and five months, when he removed to the Diocese of Albany, N. Y., in the Spring of 1884, making his residence at Greenbush, Rensselaer Co., but officiating as a missionary, by appointment of the Bishop, to the time of his death.

From early manhood he was an ardent and faithful member of the Masonic fraternity, for a number of years holding office in the Grand Lodge of the State of New York. At the time of his death he held the office of Grand Chaplain of the Grand Encampment of Knight's Templar of the United States. The Templars have erected a costly monument to his memory in the cemetery at Palmyra, N. Y.

Feb. 6, 1861, at Fort Plain, Montgomery Co., N. Y. He was educated at the United States Naval Academy, entering as a cadet engineer, and graduating, after a full years' course, in 1881. He was assigned to duty on the Adriatic Station and detailed to the U. S. S. Ashuelot, in March, 1882, and was on duty on that vessel when it was wrecked off Lamock Island, and was commended by his superior officer for coolness and bravery in remaining at his post until the fires were put out by the intrushing water, and until the ship was abandoned by nearly all the rest of the officers and crew. Soon after this a reduction in the engineer force of the Navy threw Webster and many others out of service. Although the highest court of the land decided that the officers discharged at this time were entitled to their positions and the most of them were reinstated, Webster, who in the meantime had been employed as mechanical engineer and draughtsman at the Townsend Furnace at Albany, N. Y., declined to accept reinstatement and sent in his resignation as a U. S. Naval officer.

John Burton Webster was thirteen months and fourteen days old when his mother died, and four years and twelve days old when his father died. He was reared by his grandparents near Cazenovia, N. Y., and taken with them to Cuba, N. Y., in 1831. Living with their youngest son, Israel Swetland Webster, he grew up largely under his care. Approaching his majority, he was permitted to return to Keeney Settlement, N. Y., where lived his sister, Mercy, and near which, others lived.

He settled at Keeney Settlement, N. Y., where he married, his longest absence being two years in Cuba, N. Y. He held several town offices and was for many years an official member in the Methodist Episcopal Church, to which also his entire family belonged. It was said of him at his death: "Endowed with a fine mind, and capabilities of the highest order, it needed only the opportunities of liberal culture to have opened to him almost any sphere. Few laymen were better read on the current topics of the day, or more deeply versed in the history and work of the Church. Versatile in conversation, gifted in prayer, eloquent in exhortation, strong in conviction, yet meek and gentle in spirit, he left the impress of his personality on all with whom he associated."

He died at Keeney Settlement, N. Y., July 2, 1886, where he is buried. His widow '97 was living at Homer, N. Y. She d. June 6, 1903, at Homer, N. Y., and was buried at Keeney Settlement. March 26, 1845, at that place. He had been for some years at Kettle Falls, Wash., but was killed, as see following account:

"Kettle Falls, Wash., Nov. 10, 1897. Yesterday another name was added to the fearful list of unfortunates mistaken for deer. Some ten days since Mr. Jay W. Fuller of Olean, N. Y., accompanied by an old man named Vanderpool, went on a hunt for deer into the mountains to the Southeast of this place, and, yesterday, Nov. 9, while hunting on a mountain some five miles distant from the town of Kettle Falls, they separated, agreeing to meet on a mountain spur a mile distant; and, when after a time Mr. Vanderpool caught sight of his comrade standing under the drooping branches of a small fir tree, he promptly mistook him for a deer and shot him through the heart with a fifty caliber needle gun. The unfortunate man fell dead without a struggle. This occurred about one p. m. Horrified at the awful sight, the old man hurried back to town and reported the sad affair, and a party of four of us, guided by the sorrowing survivor, started about dark for the body. Driving to the foot of the mountain, we left the team and climbed up the steep mountain side through six inches of soft snow about a mile and a half further up, and by the light of two lanterns improvised a stretcher and after an hour and a half of toil, such as none of us could well repeat, reached the wagon, and regained the town at midnight."

The following was said of him in the public press: "Mr. Stewart was born in Delhi, Delaware county, N. Y., November 6, 1823, and with his parents resided in New York state during his boyhood. But in his twentieth year the Stewart and Webster families moved to the West, journeying the entire distance from Wyoming county to Illinois in covered wagons. They arrived the day on which Mr. Stewart came to his majority, and he has often mentioned the disappointment he felt in not being able to cast his first vote in the presidential election by which Polk became the nation's executive. After several years in business in Rockford, Mr. Stewart moved to Durand to engage in farming, the majority of his land being a government claim. During the war he was supervisor for Durand township, and in this capacity was called upon to watch over the interest of the widows and families of the soldiers who died in battle. In 1872 he was elected to the general assembly by the republicans and served one term with Andrew Ashton. Though an earnest advocate of temperance he never allied himself with the prohibition party."

He received his education at Warsaw Academy and Rochester Commercial College. While a lad he was ambitious to earn and save money. His first eighty acres of land were bought with money saved from his little speculations. At the age of twenty-one he went into partnership with father, in dry goods business, at Warsaw, N. Y. After his father's death, he carried on a general merchandise store at Wethersfield Springs, Wyoming Co., N. Y., for several years. In 1868 he removed to Nashua, Iowa, where he carried on a similar business, and also that of real estate dealer for five years, when he returned to Warsaw, N. Y., where he is at present engaged in trade. He was elected Supervisor of Warsaw, for six successive terms, and for two terms was chairman of the Board. In 1880, he was appointed agent of the Onondaga Indians for western New York, and has had charge of the distribution of the annuities to the Indians. Was postmaster four years during President Harrison's term.

3. Helen Elizabeth Webster, b. Apr. 5, 1844, mar. Aug. 3, 1869, James Winslow Cochrane, a lawyer, of Midland City, Mich., son of James W. and Pamela (McLaughlin) Cochrane, b. June 1, 1838, at Attica, N. Y. They (the parents) were from Newbury, Vt., and were among the original settlers on the Holland Purchase.

When two years old her parents removed to Warsaw, N. Y., where she (Helen) attended the District School and Academy, and then finished her studies at the State Normal School, Albany, N. Y., graduating Jan. 20, 1862, the youngest of a class of thirty-seven, being one of the five appointed to read essays. Immediately after graduation she began teaching, taking higher mathematics as a specialty. She was preceptress of Genesee and Wyoming Seminary, at Alexandria, N. Y., for a short time, then in same position at Carey Collegiate Seminary, Oakfield, N. Y., for two years. In January, 1864, she became Vice-principal of Cottage Hill Seminary, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., remaining there one year, when she accepted a similar position in the "Mary Institute," Carlisle, Pa., where her sister was teaching, and where she remained four years, and then resigned.

He (James W., Jr.) was educated at the Common Schools at his home, and at Genesee and Wyoming Seminary, Alexandria, N. Y., and at Rock River University, Mt. Morris, Ills. Studied law with Comstock and Healy, at Warsaw, N. Y., and was admitted to the bar at Buffalo, N. Y., in '62. He commenced the practice of law at Warsaw, N. Y., but afterwards settled at Midland City, Mich., where he continued his practice until 1871, when he engaged in lumbering and land business, and is still engaged in the latter. He has taken an active part in politics in Midland County. Has been chairman of the Republican County Committees, and has held several important local offices, such as Supervisor, Justice of the Peace, &c., and in 1879, was elected to the State Senate by a large majority.

They resided, '84, at Midland, do Co., Mich. She d. there July 14, 1897. CHILDREN: (Cochrane) Charles Edward, b. at Midland, Mich., March 20, 1875. The end.

4. Lydia Lucelia Webster, (see portrait) b. Apr. 22, 1846, mar. June 30, 1870, at Wethersfield Springs, Wyoming Co., N. Y., Rev. James Lee Gillogly, a minister of the Episcopal Church, son of Matthew and Catharine (Smythe) Gillogly, b. Dec. 23, 1843, at Lancaster, Erie Co., N. Y.

She, after receiving a common school and academic education at Warsaw, N. Y., entered the State Normal School, at Albany, N. Y., at the age of sixteen, and graduated July 9, 1863, being the youngest of her class. In October, 1864, she accepted a position as teacher of mathematics and vocal music in the "Mary Institute," a boarding school for young ladies at Carlisle, Pa., where she remained for six years. Declining the position of Vice-principal, she severed her connection with the school June 24, 1870.

He graduated first in his class at St. Stephens College, Annandale, N. Y., in 1867, and at Berkley Divinity School, Middletown, Conn., in May, 1870, and was soon after ordained Deacon by Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, and in 1871, was ordained Priest by Bishop Tuttle. On the day of their marriage they started for Ogden, Utah Territory, where he had been appointed a missionary, and where she was closely identified with him in all his labors in the heart of Mormondom during the remainder of his life. When they arrived in Ogden, a city of 6,000 souls, there was not another minister there outside of the Mormon Church. Few can realize the labor and courage required to overcome the obstacles thrown in the way by the Mormons. At first the waiting room of the Railroad Depot was used to hold services, and while prayers were being said in one part of the room, with trains passing back and forth on either side, talking, singing and even swearing might be heard in the other part. After occupying various buildings for Church purposes, in 1874, a Hammessley family, of New York City donated $10,000, in memory of their deceased daughter for building a handsome stone Church there. The Church society continued to flourish and through the efforts of Mr. Gillogly, a commodious two story brick school house was erected to continue the school which he early started there. He also from time to time started Mission Churches and schools in the adjoining towns. The success of the Church work cannot be better shown than by a comparison of the reports sent by Mr. Gillogly, to Bishop Tuttle, at the end of the first and at the end of the tenth year of their labors. The first report shows, five communicants, one Sunday School teacher, eighteen Sunday School scholars, one day school teacher, and thirty-five scholars, and value of Church property $60.00. The tenth report shows, 115 communicants (many others had removed), eighteen Sunday School teachers and 335 Sundays School scholars,—three day schools with seven teachers, and 370 scholars, and value of Church property $38,900.

Mrs. Gillogly is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and was the first Regent of Cofade Oro Chapter of Alameda, Cal. She belongs to the Society of Americans of Royal Descent, the Colonial Dames of America, the Descendants of American Governors, and the California State Genealogical Society. In the year 1908 she was appointed by Bishop Nichols one of six delegates from his diocese to the Pan Anglican Congress in London.

Rev. James Lee Gillogly died at Ogden, Utah Territory, Feb. 14, 1881. She resided, 1891, at Macon, Macon Co., Mo. She resided, 1913, at 2065 Buena Vista Ave., Alameda, Alameda Co., Cal. After his conversion, he became a member of the Oneida Conference. Among his pre-eminent qualifications were the gift of song, an impressive address, clear views of truth, and a complete mastery of the great doctrines of his Church. In the years of his activity few excelled him in evangelistic power. He was a chosen friend in trouble, and in funeral services, was a veritable "son of consolation." He was incisive in analysis, conclusive in argument, felicitous, but not ornamental, in rhetoric. Every sermon showed both thought and research. He was a broad reader; perhaps more so than a merely technical scholar. The loss of his only son in the late war, was a blow from which he never recovered. The latter part of his life his health was delicate. Over the sedateness of his character was always a ripple of playfulness. The end of life came suddenly.

His appointments were as follows: 1840, Pompey; 1841, Otselic; 1842-'43, East Hamilton; 1844-'45, Woodstock; 1846-'47, Tully; 1848-'49, Lenox; 1850, Middleville and Westville; 1851, Cuyler; 1852-'53, Preble; 1854-'55, Marathon; 1856-'57, McGrawville; 1858-'59, Scott; 1860-'61, Keeney Settlement.

(3) John Wesley Fox enlisted in August, 1862, as a private soldier in Company I, 149th Regiment, New York State Vol. Infantry. He passed through eight general engagements without harm, but was killed in an early evening skirmish, on the picket line near Big Shanty, Ga., June 15, 1864, as the army was pressing toward Atlanta. His Captain, D. J. Lindsay, in a letter to M. R. Webster, announcing his death, said: "A braver man never was in the 149th New York Vols. But last night while we were engaging the enemy, he fell and expired; shot through the side, or hip; the ball passed up into his bowels. We found him this morning and interred him as best we could. There are now five others buried beside him. It is somewhere in the neighborhood of Big Shanty. I learn that the place is called Golgotha." Writing from Raccoon Ford, Va., Sep. 22, 1863, he, John Wesley Fox wrote to M. R. Webster, "Just think, it will be one year ago to-morrow morning since I left Syracuse for 'Dixie.' Does it seem possible?" His remains were buried where he fell, and tho' a board temporarily marked the spot, decay has no doubt long since removed it.

(2) Jan. 5, 1910, Mrs. Ruth Orinda Alexander, nee Norton, but by adoption, Smith. He died Sep. 2, 1912, at the residence of his niece, Mrs. Lewis Hamlin, Corning, on the Valley-View Farm, near Cortland, N. Y., and is buried beside his first wife at Homer, N. Y. CHILDREN: (By 1st m.) (Fox) Fred Duane, b. at Keeney Settlement, N. Y., March 29, 1852.

Rev. Warren Duane Fox was one of the seven children of Edmund and Sally (Cadwell) Fox, of Keeney Settlement, where he was born. He attained the age of 85 years and 47 days. He was sixth in the order of his birth, and also sixth in the order of his death. One sister, Mrs. Daphne Fosmer, of Cortland, in her ninety-third year, survived him, and was present at the funeral. The average age of the five sisters and brothers who preceded Mr. Fox to the spirit world was nearly seventy-seven years, and all were above seventy-five. He was one of three brothers all ministers. The eldest, Rev. Wesley Fox, died in Homer, Dec. 22, 1889, in his 77th year. Rev. Reuben Cadwell Fox, the youngest, died at Onondaga Valley, N. Y., Nov. 3, 1909, in his 79th year. This triumvirate of highly-gifted men, made full proof of their ministry in and about central New York, Wesley for forty-nine years, and the others for fifty-four years each. All had the special gift of song, but Warren excelled. Indeed few have a voice of such carrying quality as was his. A clear tenor, so full that it inundated choir or congregation, its purity and sweetness charming the ear, while it led often to the highest inspiration, and always to the devoutest worship. He entered the ministry more reluctantly than his two brothers. Both preceded him, but at thirty-one years of age, after spending some time in Cazenovia seminary in special preparation, Warren followed, uniting with the Oneida conference at Cooperstown, N. Y., April 26, 1858. He was one of a class of twelve, all of whom he outlived.

He received his ordination as deacon at the hands of Bishop Baker in April, 1860, and elder, by Bishop Ames, April 20, 1862. His fields of labor were: 1858, Lenox Circuit, with Rev. James Gutsel as senior preacher; 1859, Georgetown; 1861, Canasarega; 1862, Pompey; 1864, Located; 1866, (readmitted) Amber; 1867, McGrawville; 1871, Newfield; 1872, Tully; 1874, Cincinnatus; 1877, New Woodstock; 1880, Preble; 1883, (second term), McGrawville; 1886, to the time of his death, supernumerary or superannuated.

March 7, 1850, he was united in marriage with Miss Ann Eliza Parkell, of Clockville, N. Y. They celebrated their golden wedding March 7, 1900, at their home in Preble, and received the congratulations of their widely-scattered friends and relatives with a purse of gold and a silver tea set. Nine years later, June 3, 1909, she died.

He was in the best sense an evangelist pastor for, while his teaching and preaching were well calculated to build up the religious character of his people, and the churches which he served, his supreme power was in awakening the communities where he preached and in securing the conversion of men. To his gift of song was added a charm of personal appeal, which won young and old. He was very democratic in spirit and mingled freely with all, and was equally the friend of all.

Fred Duane, son of Rev. Warren Duane and Eliza Ann (Parkill) Fox, a druggist, mar. (1) Sep. 15, 1875, at Cincinnatus, N. Y., Emily Katharine Martin, dau. of Frederick and Penelope (Dewey) Martin, b. May 23, 1850, at Coventry, Chenango Co., N. Y. She d. at Manitou, Col., Dec. 18, 1888. He mar. (2) Jan. 2, 1894, Florence Ondyn, dau. of Edward P. and Leora A. (Parker) Baker, b. Nov. 6, 1865, at Independence, Iowa. He has resided at Colorado Springs, Colo.; Mantau Springs, Colo., and 1913, was living at 2307 Colfax Ave., East Denver, Colo. CHILDREN: (By second mar.) (Born in Manitou, Col.) Edna Florence, Dec. 26, 1894; Neva Villette, March 9, 1897; Clara Mayne, May 12, 1900. The end.

7. Rev. Reuben Cadwell Fox, b. Jan. 14, 1831, a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, mar. Jan. 7, 1856, at Groton, N. Y., Mary Ann, dau. of Pliny and Sarah (Eldridge) Sykes, b. at Groton, Tompkins Co., N. Y., Jan. 28, 1831.

He was educated in the common schools, and Cazenovia Seminary, entering the latter in 1851; followed by a brief course in the Concord, New Hampshire, Biblical Institute, under the presidency of Dr. John Dempster, its founder. He united with Oneida Conference, July 31, 1855, at a session held at New York Mills, a suburb of Utica, N. Y., Bishop E. R. Ames, presiding. He had already served Perryville, N. Y., the previous year, and thereafter was pastor as follows: 1855, North Lansing; 1856, '57, McLean and Peruville; 1858, '59, Tully; 1860, '61, Groton; 1862, Asbury, near Ithaca, N. Y.; 1863, '64, Fleming; 1865, '67, Ledyard; 1868, Newfield. At this time, by a change in boundaries, he became a member of Central New York Conference; 1869, '71, Manlius; 1872, '73, Oneida; 1874, '75, Waterloo; 1876, '78, Port Byron; 1879, '81, Homer; 1882, '84, Moravia; 1885, '87, Skaneateles; 1888, '89, Jordan; 1890, '93, Marcellus; 1894, '98, Onondaga Valley; 1899, 1900, Cicero.

In his 47th year of unbroken service as a pastor, he retired as a Supernumerary for six years, and a Superannuate until his death. Although never robust, it was found at the close of his active ministry that he had never lost a Sunday by reason of his own sickness.

On retirement, he located at Onondaga Valley, in the Church he had loved and served so well, and died there, Nov. 3, 1909, where his widow, 1914, still resided. He was buried in Homer, N. Y., beside his brothers, Rev's. Wesley and Warren Duane Fox.

Of him it was said at the funeral: "No star ever shed a more lustrous and steady ray than Reuben Cadwell Fox. So constant was his life, and such its fidelity, that like the spheres he could be located in any weather. All that was gentlest and firmest seemed to be united in his genial personality. Friction with him was not a sign of force, but waste, and so his life, even in temperament, and quiet in spirit, moved forward without noise, like those divine forces which open the gates of day without din or confusion, conflict or discord. Of all men least assertive, he nevertheless held the strongest positions of faith and practice. He inherited many of his excellent qualities. From his mother he received a quick and responsive spiritual nature, sensitive as an Aeolian, so that Samuel-like, when others were sleeping in the tabernacle, he heard the divine voice. From his father he inherited a rock-like firmness and integrity, which never bent or wavered, however severe the stress. On his father's side he was descended from Richard Fox, an early settler of Glastonbury, Conn., and of Governor John Webster, one of the founders of the commonwealth of Connecticut and the city of Hartford. On his mother's side he came from Thomas Cadwell, one of the early settlers of Hartford, and Alexander Keeney, of Weathersfield, Conn., honorable names in New England history.

"His death was a triumph of Christian faith. After a severe paroxysm, as he was nearing the end, he said to a friend, "This does not take immortality out of a man. I believe, more than ever, that I am immortal, and that, as we used to sing, 'We're going home to die no more.'"

SECTION 6.—Children of John Burton (Ashbel, Ashbel, Ashbel, Jonathan "the miller," Jonathan, Dea. Jonathan, Robert, Gov. John) and Harriet Maria (Fox) Webster, of Keeney Settlement, N. Y.

1. Rev. Anson Delano Webster, b. July 29, 1842, a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and member of the Northern New York Conference, mar. (1) Nov. 12, 1863, at Keeney, N. Y., Emilie Elizabeth Woodruff, b. Dec. 2, 1839, dau. of Leonard and Sarah (Vincent) Woodruff, a descendant of Anna Webster, all of Keeney Settlement, N. Y., in the town of Fabius. She d. there without issue, Oct. 18, 1867. He mar. (2) Aug. 6, 1868, Lucia Amanda Porter, b. March 17, 1849, dau. of Daniel and Jane (Woodruff) Porter. Jane Woodruff was a sister of his first wife. For pedigree, see Anna Webster and her husband, Gurdon Woodruff.

Rev. Anson Delano Webster was educated in the common schools and Cazenovia Seminary, which he left for the war, in 1861. He served as a private in Company I, 61st Regiment, New York Vols., from Oct. 8, 1861, to Nov. 14, 1862; also in Company L, 9th New York Heavy Artillery, from Dec. 28, 1863, to 1865; wounded at the battle of Malvern Hill, July 1, 1862. He was at the siege of Yorktown; battles of Savage Station, White Oak Swamp and Malvern Hill. In second term was in the Wilderness campaign, front of Petersburg, in battle of Cedar Creek, and at Lee's surrender. Was an orderly Sergeant.

Returning he taught school, and then entered the ministry. The following is his record. He was licensed to exhort in 1857, on the Fabius charge, Rev. Ephriam C. Brown, pastor; to preach, in 1867, same place, Rev. William H. Curtis, pastor; admitted, Central New York Conference, April 21, 1869; full connection, April 5, 1872; ordained Deacon, April 7, 1872 by Bishop Simpson; Elder, Oct. 11, 1874, by Bishop Peck.

Appointments: 1869, Clockville; 1870-71, DeRuyter and Shedd's Corners; 1872, Pratt's Hollow; (Twice appointed to Pratt's Hollow in 1872, the Conference having been changed to a Fall Conference, and making the term eighteen months, instead of two years). 1873, Manlius Station; 1874-76, McGrawville; 1877, LaFayette; 1878-80, Morrisville and Eaton; admitted by transfer April 19, 1881, to Northern New York Conference; 1881-83, Belleville; 1884-86, Chateaugay; 1887-89, Potsdam; 1890-92, Clayton; 1893-96, Pulaski; 1897-1901, Presiding Elder of Adams District; 1902, Cherry Valley; 1903-04, Oriskany Falls; 1905-1914, Superannuated.

REV. MELVILLE REUBEN WEBSTER, D. D.

MRS. FRANCES JANET JAY WEBSTER.

MISS FLORENCE MAY WEBSTER AT EIGHT AND SEVENTEEN.

See Pages 1465-67.

He represented his Conference in the General Conference of 1900 at Chicago. A pleasing coincidence was the presence, in the same Conference, of his brother, the Rev. Melville R. Webster, a delegate from the Genesee Conference.

Feb. 9, 1903, he underwent a severe surgical operation in the City of Rochester, required by a ruptured gall bladder. Since then he has been relieved and his health improved, although still an invalid.

Residence, 1914, Oriskany Falls, Oneida Co., N. Y. CHILDREN: (All by second mar.) Emily Jane, b. DeRuyter, Madison Co., N. Y., Aug. 3, 1870; Frankie Lucia, b. Pratt's Hollow, Madison Co., N. 2. Rev. Melville Reuben Webster, D.D., b. Feb. 14, 1850, the final author, editor and publisher of "The History and Genealogy of the Gov. John Webster Family of Connecticut," a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a member of Genesee Conference, mar. March 23, 1870, in the town of Cayuta, Schuyler Co., N. Y., Frances Janet, dau. of James Burton and Zada Pixley (Fuller) Jay, (but Leonard by adoption) b. Jan. 5, 1848, in the town of Sullivanville, Chemung Co., N. Y.

He was educated in the common schools and Cazenovia Seminary; taught three winters, and entered the ministry at twenty years of age. He was licensed to exhort, Oct. 25, 1868, on the Fabius charge, Central New York Conference, by Rev. Thomas H. Youngman, pastor; licensed to preach, May 29, 1869, same charge, Rev. A. J. Phelps, presiding elder; admitted to Central New York Conference, April 19, 1870; full connection, April 19, 1873; ordained deacon, Northern New York Conference, April 20, 1873, by Bishop Peck; elder, May 2, 1875, by Bishop Scott.

Appointments: 1870-72, Central Square; 1873-75, Brockett's Bridge (now Dolgeville); 1876-78, Frankfort; 1879-81, Little Falls; 1882-84, Watertown, State Street; 1885-87, Oswego, Trinity; 1888-91, Rome, First Church.

Mid-year, Oct. 5, 1891, he was transferred to Genesee Conference and appointed pastor of Rochester First Church, of which he remained pastor five years, the full pastoral term, and was then appointed to Bradford, Pa., First Church, Oct. 9, 1896. After four years he was appointed by Bishop McCabe, Oct. 2, 1900, to the Niagara District, with residence at Niagara Falls. At the end of two years, in response to a popular demand, Bishop Mallalieu appointed him, Sep. 30, 1902, presiding elder of Rochester District, in which position he remained the full legal term of six years. Oct. 6, 1908, Bishop Cranston appointed him pastor of Park

Church, Hornell, where he remained three years, returning to Rochester as associate pastor of First Church, under appointment of Bishop Berry, Oct. 2, 1911, where he has since remained.

In the Central New York Conference, while yet a Probationer, he was called to the work of a Secretary. The following year, 1873, when by change of boundaries he became a member of Northern New York Conference, he was continued in the same line of service until 1884, when he was elected Chief Secretary, which he held eight consecutive years, until his transfer to Genesee terminated his relations to Northern New York Conference. For several years in the Conference he was Assistant Treasurer of the Gardner Baker Professorship in Syracuse University, doing the clerical work.

In the year 1888 he brought to completion and printed in the Conference minutes, the most elaborate Historical Register of Northern New York Conference, and Black River Conference, its predecessor, that had appeared up to that time. It has served as a model to several since.

The Northern New York Conference honored him with membership in the Ecumenical Methodist Conference which was held in Washington, D. C., Oct. 7-20, 1891.

Syracuse University conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctorem Divinitatis at the Commencement of 1887. At Little Falls, he largely liquidated a crushing Church debt; at State Street, Watertown, repaired and beautified the Church building at a cost of over $6,000; and at Rochester, First Church, built a Sunday School edifice costing over $43,000, preliminary to the erection of the auditorium, the completed plant being one of the most beautiful in the city.

He was admitted to the Sons of the American Revolution, April 11, 1895, his number being New York State, 600; National, 5400. His local membership is with the Rochester Chapter. He was admitted on the services of Ashbel Webster, Samuel Fox and Reuben Cadwell, soldiers from Connecticut. Since admission he has discovered that he is also eligible because of the services of Israel Swetland, also a Connecticut soldier, another ancestor, whose name in the rolls appears as Israel Swetlin. The children of his brother, Seymour Cadwell Webster, may add to the above the services of Gurdon Woodruff and John Cadwell, ancestors of their mother, Alice Luella Woodruff—six in all.

He is a member of Valley Lodge, No. 109, F. and A. Masons, and Hamilton Chapter, No. 62, Royal Arch Masons, both of the City of Rochester.

At this time, 1914, he is President of the following organizations: The Church Insurance Association of the State of New York, second term; Silver Lake Assembly,—“the Summer Chautauqua of the Genesee,” (eighth year); The Methodist Ministers’ Association of Rochester and Vicinity, second year. The Webster Reunion and Pic Nic Association of Western New York, also the second year.

For two terms of four years each he was elected by the General Conferences of 1900 and 1904, a Director in the Insurance Board of the General Conference, having oversight and supervision of Methodist Mutual Insurance Company of Chicago.

Three times he was elected to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, by Genesee Conference, namely, 1900, held at Chicago; 1904, Los Angeles, 1912, Minneapolis.

He has served continuously as a director in the Church Insurance Association of the State of New York since Nov. 1, 1893; as a Trustee of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, Lima, N. Y., since October 9, 1894, eleven years of which he was Secretary of the Board; six years as Treasurer of Genesee Conference, from 1894; and has now (1914) entered his thirteenth year as Treasurer of the Permanent Fund of Genesee Conference.

Despite the ceaseless demands upon his time and strength, he has, by the judicious use of all his vacation time, and other opportunities, brought to completion "The History and Genealogy of the Gov. John Webster Family of Connecticut," which is amplified elsewhere.

Residence, 1914, Rochester, N. Y., 149 Earl Street. CHILDREN: Florence May, b. Central Square, Oswego Co., N. Y., April 25, 1871, d. at Rome, Oneida Co., N. Y., April 1, 1890, and is there buried.

Mrs. Mary M. Bingham writing of her (Northern Christian Advocate, June 12, 1890) said: "Her rare Christian character and experience are a study of more than ordinary interest. From her earliest years she enjoyed a consciousness of divine favor. She went with her mother to the table of the Lord as soon as she could walk. She was received on probation in the Church at Little Falls when about nine years of age, and was baptized and received into full connection at the same place, Feb. 20, 1881, being less than ten years of age. She continued to experience an increasing spiritual illumination until her death. . . . She was a deep reader of a wide range of subjects—poetry, literature, science, history, philosophy, metaphysics—and was a close observer and enthusiastic admirer of nature. She had an intense love of art and music. . . . Her last words were, "Yes, I am going, but I will go as slowly as I can." The end.

CHAPTER LXXXII.

Other New England Websters.—John of Ipswich,—Thomas of Hampton,—Nicholas of Stamford,—John of Richmond,—Benjamin of Windham,—Thomas of Upton,—Justus of Middletown,—Isaac of South Lee,—Henry of Boston.

New England was prolific in Websters. In addition to the family of Governor John Webster of Connecticut, there were three or four others which dated from early Colonial times. William Holcomb Webster, the original author of this book, gathered Webster material from every part of the United States, and in his printed forms agreed to turn over to any duly authorized historian of other branches the data thus collected whenever it was needed for publication. The late William A. Webster of Springfield, Mass., began work for the John of Ipswich family. After his death, Prof. Stephen P. Sharples, a veteran Genealogist, one of the authors of the Kimball Genealogy, residing at 22 Concord Avenue, Cambridge, Mass., (Business address, 26 Broad St., Boston) took up the work and has carried it forward for many years. From him we have received valuable aid, and to him we have made available the material gathered on various Webster lines, and it is expected that a volume will soon be published by him, covering the Thomas of Hampton family to which the Hon. Daniel Webster, the statesman, belonged, and perhaps others.

The following is a list of New England Websters either wholly unrelated, or the point of union has not been discovered. Only extensive research in English and Scotch records can settle the relationship.

1. THE IPSWICH, MASSACHUSETTS, FAMILY. Founded by John Webster who came to this country in 1634. Was born in Ipswich, Suffolk Co., England. Settled in Ipswich, Essex Co., Massachusetts, where he was made a freeman, March 4, 1635. He married Mary Shatswell, a sister of Theophilus Shatswell, Esq. John Webster died at Ipswich in the year 1646. He had eight children as follows: John, born probably in England. He was a blacksmith and settled in Newbury. He m. June 13, 1653, Ann Batt, d. of Nicholas. They had ten children. Israel, another son, b. in England about 1624, settled in Newbury. He m. first, Jan. 3, 1666, or '67, Elizabeth Brown, and second, Nov. 9, 1669, Elizabeth Lunt. One child by first marriage, and four by second. Stephen, another son, a tailor, settled in Haverhill. He m. first, March 24, 1662, Hannah Ayer, and second, May 26, 1678, widow Judith Broad. His six children were all by his first marriage. Nathan, another son, settled in Bradford. He m. Mary Haseltine and had seven children. Hannah, a daughter, m. Michael Emerson, and their dau. Hannah, m. Dec. 3, 1677, Thomas Dustin. This is the Hannah Dustin who slew and scalped ten Indians who had taken her captive, and escaped to her home in Haverhill. She was mother of thirteen children. Mary, another daughter, m. Oct. 29, 1650, John Emery, Jr., of Newbury, and had twelve children. Abigail, a third daughter, may be the Abigail Webster who m. Abraham Merrill of Hartford, Ct., as claimed by some. Sarah, last daughter, given as Elizabeth, by Savage. No history. In 1884, John Ordway Webster, M.D., of Augusta, Me., published a fourteen-page pamphlet covering some of these lines, particularly that of Nathan of Bradford. The descendants of John of Ipswich are very numerous, and a volume giving a full history of the family will be a welcome contribution to Webster Genealogies.

2. THE HAMPTON, MASSACHUSETTS, FAMILY. Founded by Thomas Webster, born in Saint Michael's Parish, Ormsby, Norfolk Co., England, son of Thomas and Margery Webster. His father died and was buried April 30, 1634, and his mother, Margery, married William Godfrey. They removed to America and settled in Watertown, Mass., prior to 1639, and thence went to Hampton, Norfolk Co., then in Massachusetts, afterward in New Hampshire. After the death of William Godfrey, Mch. 25, 1671, his mother married, third, John Merriam. She died at Hampton, May 2, 1687. Thomas Webster was the third son to bear that name, two having died before his birth. He married, Nov. 2, 1657, Sarah Brewer, the daughter of Thomas Brewer of Roxbury, Mass. Webster swore allegiance in February, 1669, and died at Hampton, Jan. 5, 1715, aged 83 years. His children were Mary, b. Dec. 19, 1658, who mar. (1) Oct. 20, 1676, William Swain, and (2) June 12, 1694, Joseph Emmons, "of the Falls church," and was living in 1735. Sarah, b. Jan. 22, 1661, who m. June 21, 1680, William Lane. She d. at Hampton, Jan. 5, 1745. Thomas, b. Jan. 20, 1665, settled in Kingston, N. H., in 1703, where he d. Mch. 7, 1733. His wife was Sarah, said by Bond's History of Watertown to have been his own cousin, a dau. of Wm. Godfrey. She d. Feb. 15, 1718. They had nine children. Ebenezer, b. Aug. 1, 1667, m. July 25, 1709, Hannah Judkins. He d. Feb. 1, 1736, at Kingston, N. H., where his nine children were born. Isaac, b. Apr. 2, 1670, of Kingston, N. H., m. (1) Apr. 1, 1697, Mary Hutchins, and (2) Sarah Burnham. He d. at Kingston, Feb. 21, 1718. Eight children. John, b. Feb. 16, 1674, was a mariner,—a Captain. His home was Hampton. He m. (1) in September, 1703, Abiah Shaw, and (2) Sarah. He d. 1734. Nine children. Joshua, b. Nov. 8, 1676, probably never married. Abigail, b. Jan. 1, 1679, m. Oct. 23, 1695, James Marden of Newcastle. (See Vol. VII. N. E. Genealogical Register, p. 124, for children.)

One of the nine children of Ebenezer Webster, b. Aug. 1, 1667, and his wife, Hannah Judkins, was Ebenezer Webster, b. Oct. 10, 1714, who m. Susannah Batchelder. Their son, Ebenezer, b. Apr. 22, 1739, settled in Salisbury, N. H., and was distinguished in the French and Indian war.

He m. (1) Mehitable Smith, and (2) Abigail Eastman. Hon. Daniel Webster, the statesman, b. Jan. 18, 1782, was the son the last named Ebenezer and his wife, Abigail Eastman. Hon. Daniel Webster, died at Marshfield, Mass., Oct. 24, 1852.

3. THE STAMFORD, CONNECTICUT, FAMILY. Nicholas Webster of Stamford, Conn., m. in 1672, Mrs. Sarah Dibble, nee Waterbury, who had been divorced from her former husband, Zachariah Dibble. Assuming that Webster was of full age when he married, his birth was not later than 1650. He died Aug. 12, 1687. His Will was dated July 19, 1687. In it are mentioned his wife Sarah, and his children, John, David and Rachel. The dau. Rachel m. Aug. 18, 1708, Henry Atwood. Jonathan Waterbury, his brother-in-law, was trustee of his estate. With others, Nicholas Webster purchased of the Indians land in the northern part of the town of Stamford, in what afterward became the Parish of Bedford. Later the boundary was changed and it became a part of New York State. It is presumed that the Websters of South Salem, Westchester Co., N. Y., are descendants of Nicholas Webster.

4. THE RICHMOND, RHODE ISLAND, FAMILY. Land records at Westerly, R. I., which at that time included the town of Richmond, show that Nov. 26, 1716, John Webster was given a deed by John Kinyon, his father-in-law, for twenty-five acres on Beaver River. If he were of full age when he was married, then his birth was not later than 1695. His wife was Elizabeth Kinyon. John Webster was the first Town Clerk of the town of Richmond, and in eight consecutive years missed election only one year. He was also a Justice of the Peace and a Representative in the General Assembly (Legislature). He died March 15, 1783. His Will was made in 1776, and a codocile attached in 1777. His children were James, who m. Aug. 17, 1741, Hannah Woodmansee. John, Jr., who m. Dec. 6, 1751, Elizabeth Moshier. Thomas who m. Nov. 17, 1765, Patience Adams. This Thomas Webster mentions in his Will, his wife Patience, his sons Jonathan, and his daughters Patience Kenyon, wife of Remington Kenyon, Eunice Babcock, wife of Benjamin Babcock, and Anner Webster. Hannah who m. Nov. 28, 1736, Ezekiel Barber. Mary who m. Aug. 17, 1741, Joseph Woodmansee. Elizabeth, who m. Jan. 18, 1748, John Kenyon. Six children in all. In the codicile of his Will are mentioned the children of his son James, namely, Stephen, James, John, Daniel, and his daughter-in-law, the widow of James. This widow of her son James removed to Tyeringham, Berkshire Co., Mass., as shown by a deed dated 1797, in which she mentions her sons, Stephen, James, John and Daniel. This branch of the family is represented by many descendants in and about Rochester. Milo Franklin Webster of Victor, N. Y., has gathered something of its later history.

One theory of the origin of this Rhode Island family is that they are descendants of James and Mary (Hay) Webster of Boston. James was a Scotchman and Mary an Irish maid. They were married in Boston, Feb. 14, 1658. They had six children, four of whom were sons. One son, James, married Mary and had nine children. One of his daughters, Mary, b. 1686, m. John James, a shipwright, and in 1747, was living in Newport, R. I. A widowed sister of Mary (Webster) James, namely, Abigail Wingate, also settled in Rhode Island. This has led to the conjecture that in some of these families was born the John who settled in Richmond.

5. THE WINDHAM, CONNECTICUT, FAMILY. Benjamin Webster was a member of the church in Windham, Windham Co., Conn., in 1729, as was probably his wife, Ruth. He sold land April 25, 1731, to Elizer Crocker, and purchased other land there Nov. 16, 1731. In the Beverly, Essex Co., Mass., records may be found the following which identifies the place from which they came to Windham, namely: November 8, 1712, Benjamin Webster published to Ruth Gray (intention of marriage). Their children there recorded were Grace, b. August 18, 1713; Martha, b. July 12, 1715; Charity, b. Feb. 26, 1717, and all three were baptised Aug. 18, 1717; Judith, bap. Mch. 8, 1718; Benjamin, bap. July 18, 1725. The time of their removal to Windham, Conn., is closely fixed by the fact that Oct. 25, 1728, Ruth Webster was given a letter of dismissal to the church in Windham. The dau. Grace m. June 11, 1733, William Neff, and had Benjamin, b. May 16, 1734; Ruth, b. May 31, 1737; William, b. May 14, 1739; Thomas, b. July 31, 1744; Martha, b. Oct. 4, 1742; Joseph, b. July 27, 1746.

The Beverly Mass. records also show a William Webster, presumably a brother of Benjamin, who m. Jan. 7, 1715, Susanna Comer, and their children were Susanna, b. Feb. 1, 1717; Elizabeth, bap. Sep. 8, 1717; William, b. Mch. 18, 1719; Lydia, b. Feb. 22, 1722; Benjamin, b. July, year not given; Anna, bap. Aug. 4, 1728; Robert, b. Sep., 1730; John, b. Sep., 1733. The above William Webster of Beverly was a cordwainer, and June 18, 1744, with his wife Susanna sold his house and lot in Beverly. If he and Benjamin were brothers it is surmised that they may have been sons of Benjamin Webster who served in the King Philip war in 1675, and his wife Grace.

6. THE UPTON, MASSACHUSETTS, FAMILY. Thomas Webster of Upton, Worcester Co., Mass., "yeoman," was born about 1725, and may have been the Thomas Webster of Grafton, who was in the French and Indian war, Aug. 16, 1757. In 1750 Thomas Webster and wife Elizabeth were warned out of Upton. His first wife was Elizabeth, and all his children were by this marriage. He m. (2) Mehitable Clemons. July 4, 1768, Thomas Webster, "husbandman," of Upton, buys land there of Timothy Aldrich of Upton. In his Will dated April 11, 1788, and probated Feb. 1, 1803, he mentions his wife Elizabeth (not his first wife), his sons Benjamin, David, Thomas, Jonathan, Samuel, and daughters Mehitable and Elizabeth. (Both died unmarried.) The son Benjamin m. a Hall and settled in Providence, R. I. Had no children. The son David appears to have died unmarried, as the brothers and sisters unite in deeds in 1812 and 1814 conveying their right and title to real estate that their brother David "died seized on." Thomas, Jr. b. Feb. 16, 1766, lived in Upton, was married and had five children. He d. July 21, 1856, aged 90-5-5. Jonathan, a Baptist Lay Preacher, b. Oct. 9, 1750, m. at Dudley, Mass., Nov. 17, 1776, Martha Carpenter, b. Sep. 19, 1755, probably in R. I., dau. of Joseph and Mary (Nason) Carpenter. They lived in Sutton, Mass., where their four children were born. Samuel, b. Aug. 14, 1757, m. (1) at Oxford, Mass., May 1, 1779, Lucy Warren of Dudley, Mass. She d. Apr. 28, 1804, at Orwell, Addison Co., Vt. He m. (2) Hannah Beebe. He was Baptist minister; went to the Holland Purchase in Western New York, and died at Warsaw, N. Y., Mch. 27, 1820. Six children.

7. THE MIDDLETOWN, CONNECTICUT, FAMILY. Justus Webster of Middletown, Conn., married Sarah Talcott, b. Sep. 1, 1741, at Durham, Conn., dau. of John and Sarah (Parsons) Talcott. Her father, John Talcott was born in Durham, Nov. 26, 1712, and was the son of Hezekiah Talcott, a native of Hartford from which he removed to Durham soon after 1706, and was one of the original proprietors. Their children were Sarah, b. Sep. 26, 1762; Rhoady, b. July 6, 1764; Justus, b. Sep. 1, 1766; Eunice, b. June 22, 1769; Samuel, b. Mch. 31, 1772. It has been assumed that in developing the history of the Governor John Webster family a place for the above Justus would be found. If he were of full age at marriage the date of his birth would be about 1740. The record of his descendants is quite complete and would have been included in this History and Genealogy if a point of union had been found. If further research reveals the family line, and it is shown that it belongs to the Governor John Webster family, it will be published in future editions.

8. THE SOUTH LEE, MASSACHUSETTS, FAMILY. Isaac Webster, b. Jan. 13, 1781, at West Hartford, Conn., said to have been the son of Isaac, m. at Lee, Mass., Sep. 30, 1801 (another says they were married at Hartland, Vt.), Sylvia Barlow. Her father owned a farm at Grove Pond in Lee, and was instantly killed while sitting in his own doorway by a falling tree blown over by the wind. Their children were Henry, usually called Harry, b. June 22, 1802, at Lee, Mass.; Abi Sedgwick, Apr. 26, 1804; Wells Ebenezer, Feb. 16, 1806; Mary Amny, b. Mch. 1, 1808; Sylvia Adeline, b. Feb. 12, 1810; Isaac Barlow, b. July 20, 1816; Jason Samuel, b. June 11, 1819. Several descendants of this family are now living in and about Hartford, Conn., and the presumption seems clear from all the traditions in the family that they belong to the Governor John Webster family, but the identification has not been made. Should it be shown that they belong in this Genealogy a place will be accorded in future editions.

9. AN EXTINCT BOSTON FAMILY. Henry Webster came to Boston, April 15, 1679. He was the son of John Webster, of Barbadoes. Henry Webster's wife was Esther, and they had a son John, b. Sep. 28, 1688, who m. Mary Smith and had a son Grant who was graduated from Harvard in 1736. They also had a son Redford who m. Hannah White of Watertown, Mass. Their son, Redford had a son, John W(hite) Webster who was a Professor in Harvard. He left no descendants of the name of Webster, and Prof. Sharples is authority for the statement that the line is extinct.

The above list shows something of the field yet to be covered in accounting for all of the New England Websters, and other fragments might be added. But they cannot be considered here. Perhaps this outline may stimulate the spirit of inquiry.

INDEXES.

1. INDEX OF FAMILIES GROUPED BY CHAPTERS.

At the head of each Chapter is placed conspicuously the name of a Webster ancestor. The following Index contains their names, alphabetically arranged. ## II. INDEX OF WEBSTERS.

The names of those who died in infancy or early childhood do not appear in the Index. The abbreviations used are s. for son, d. for daughter. The final figures, after each name, refer to the page or pages, and those next to the name, if any, to the year of birth. Names exactly alike are not repeated, but form a paragraph introduced by the name common to all in the paragraph.
